

DIABETES SERVICE STANDARDS & ACCREDITATION PROGRAM

ALL ABOUT ACCREDITATION

- The NADC accreditation is the only accreditation of its kind to offer comprehensive diabetes-specific accreditation aimed at the improvement of quality and safety
- The objective of the NADC accreditation is to assist diabetes services to achieve quality patient care through improved governance, service structure, and improved educational and clinical services

BENEFITS OF ACCREDITATION

- Status & Reputation - NADC certification as a high-quality diabetes service
- Recognition - as a best practice service meeting stringent quality and safety standards
- Knowledge-sharing - ability to leverage knowledge from other accredited centres to improve service delivery
- Quality Improvement - be part of a broader goal to improve health services nationwide by mentoring and educating smaller centres
- Benchmarking - opportunity to compare performance against peer centres
- Business Expansion - opportunity to broaden your centre's reputation and patient base
- Service Improvement - opportunity to utilise the evidence gained from the accreditation process to lobby for increased funding and resourcing in areas where your service can be enhanced